Brilliant Reception at the Mistletoe Club Rooms.

Among the social happenings of the week was the reception given by the Mistletoe Club at the club rooms Monday evening, Dec. 26th. The decorations of holly and wreaths of mistletoe were effectively used throughout the reception parlors and dancing hall. No expense was spared to make it one of the most elegant and enjoyable receptions ever given in the history of the club. The music, furnished by Zimmerlied's orchestra of Kansas City, was the finest ever heard in Marshall, the sweet strains of which, made dancing a delight.

The highly polished floor was in perfect condition and the light fantastic was tripped until a late hour. The handsome young matrons and the many beautiful girls all dressed in their bright colored evening dresses, together with the elegantly attired gentlemen, made a scene both charming and picturesque.

Refreshments of metropolitan cream and a variety of cake and coffee were served in the dining room.

Those present from a distance were as follows: Ilgenfritz, Sedalia; E. L. Martin, D. W. McLean, H. L. Goodwin, Chas. Bowman, Arthur Kelley, Kansas City; Will Burruss, D. P. ## Christmas Service.

The Knights Templar were invited by the pastor, Rev. W. R. Dobyns, to hold their Christmas service at the Presbyterian church Sunday evening. Sermon by the pastor, who took his text from Matt. 7:21, "Not everyone that sayeth unto me Lord, Lord, shall enter into the Kingdom of Heaven, but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in Heaven." The music was especially appropriate for the occasion.

Reception at Blackburn.

The lovely home of Mrs. L. A. Blackburn, of Blackburn, was the scene, Wednesday evening, of a brilliant reception given by the XXX club, which is composed of some 30 ladies, who meet every two weeks, and once each year they give an open session and invite their husbands and friends.

The spacious rooms, upon this occasion, were brilliantly illuminated and decorated very effectively in pink roses, ribbons and garlands of cedar and amilax, intermingled with mistletoe and holly.

Mrs. Blackburn, assisted by several members of the club, proved a most gracious hostess. The evening was one of genial pleasure to all present. A delicious luncheon, served in four courses by Loomis, was as follows:

First, quail on toast, hot biscuit, olives and pickles. Second, shrimp salad, Saratoga wafers and celery. Third, metropolitan cream and cake. Fourth, coffee, bon bons and salted almonds.

Those present from Marshall were Messrs Adolph and Will Striker, Arthur Yawter, Theodore Mayer, O. T. Goodwin, Tom Lacy, H. Harvey, Will Walker, Wilder Blair, Will Leonard and wife and R. E. L. Smith and wife.

Martin A. Gauldin.

Martin A. Gauldin, an old and highly respected citizen, died at his home in south Marshall, Monday, Dec. 26th, at 10 o'clock a. m., after months of ill health. Deceased was born in Campbell county, Virginia, March 22, 1818. He came to Missouri when a very young man and became, by hard work, one of its most prosperous farmers and successful business men. The deceased was a wealthy man and leaves six sons and four daughters, whose families embrace some of the best known people in Saline county.

The funeral services were held at Union church Tuesday and were conducted by Rev. W. R. Dobyns.

In the death of this man an old landmark has been removed from Saline County. He was one of the oldest, as well as most respected citizens of Saline County.

Mr. Gauldin has been a very active man in the county for more than fifty years. Being one of the pioneer settlers, he was well and favorably known. He moved from his home west of this place in the county several years since, during which time he has been an invalid. Prior to his coming here, he was an extensive and prosperous farmer. A man of great energy and good business foresight, he accumulated a large and handsome estate, leaving to every one of his children a magnificent Saline Co. farm, which to any one is a fortune in itself.

Mr. Gauldin was a man of the strictest business integrity, a considerate parent, a kind neighbor and a worthy and honorable gentleman in the broadest sense. He was a worthy member of the Old School Presbyterian church and exemplary as a Christian.

Funeral of Emmett Craddock.

The bullet passing through the left cheek is supposed to have struck the spinal column, which caused paralysis of the tongue, throat and entire right side. The deceased was 27 years of age, was highly respected by both white and black, and was the son of Edward and Ophelia Craddock of this city. His mother and grandmother, old aunt Charlotte, many of the old residents will remember as two very refined and highly respected colored people. The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon from the residence, conducted by Revs. DeLoe and Madison of the M. E. church and remains were interred in the cemetery for colored people east of town.

The pall bearers were Paschal, Ed. London, Azar, Arthur and Dr. C. C. Craddock, all brothers of the deceased.

Lines to a Beautiful Missourian.

Maid of Marshall! thy fair face
Haunts me with its angel grace;
Suns that set and stars that rise
Gleam like rays from thy bright eyes.
Blessing with their true love-light
The dreary day or darksome night.

Maid of Marshall, in thy face
Every line of Love I trace;
Every grace of goodness rare
Which Christ's children here may share;
May thy joys be ever pure,
And thro' endless years endure.

Maid of Marshall, evermore,
Whilst I walk Earth's time-worn shore
I will think and dream of thee—
Thy sweet face forever see—
Till I meet thee yet again
Far beyond Death's darkling main.

—ALDINE S. KIEFFER.

The above article was taken from the January number of The Musical Million, published in Dayton, Virginia. A little foot note explains somewhat the connection of the author to the story. "It was in Marshall that the writer met with a relative of Father Ryan, author of 'The Conquered Banner,' and whom, like her relative, is now, as he was, a devout Catholic."

FROM THE ADVERTISER.

The residents of Nantucket are said to be so well satisfied with their small island that they care but little for the outside world. Naturally many of the men are employed in fishing, and the old fishermen delight to tell of the foolish questions asked by the "rusticators" who visit Nantucket in summer. One summer visitor, in turn, tells this story of the town fish market:

"Have you any salmon?" I asked of the old salt, who was sharpening a knife.

"No, ma'am," he answered, and then he added, in a pleasantly condescending way, "We don't sell nothing but fish here."

"Well," I responded, "salmon is fish, you know. They are caught in all"—But he interrupted me.

"Land! I know fish eat all sorts of things. I hear about 'em eatin' frogs and callin' them fish. Folks are strange in their eatin', same as they be in their clothes," with a critical glance at my bicycle skirt, "but all the fish that folks ought to eat can be caught right round these shores. Can't I sell you a nice bluefish, that ain't been out'n the water more'n an hour?"

Net knowing any better way to regain his good opinion, I purchased of the bluefish and went merrily home.—Youth's Companion.
